

Interstate Roads to Get New Markers

Washington (AP)—American motorists soon will be seeing a new marker designating official route numbers on the vast network of interstate superhighways.

The marker is an adaptation of the shield that has been used to mark U. S. routes since 1926.

It will be red and blue, and reflectorized to show brightly at night.

State Toll Roads First
The markers will be seen first on the 2,100 miles of state toll roads that have been incorporated into the interstate and defense systems.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike, for instance, will be Interstate Highway 80. The New York Thruway will be Interstate Highway 87 from New York to Albany, and Interstate 90 from Albany to Erie. The Kansas Turnpike will be Interstate 35.

The marker and the route numbers were decided upon after more than a year of study by the American Association of State Highway Officials. This is the organization that designated and marked the U. S. routes 31 years ago when interstate travel started booming. Before that, a traveler had to get an entire new list of highways every time he crossed a state line.

Not Related to U. S.
Despite common belief to the contrary, the U. S. route numbers and the shields have nothing to do with the federal government. The highways are marked, maintained and posted by the various state highway organizations.

U. S. 1 runs along the east coast. U. S. 101 stretches along the west coast. The east-west highways start with U. S. 2 near the Canadian border and end up with U. S. 90 in the deep South.

The numerical pattern was marked when the number of U. S. highways exceeded 101, which is why you find U. S. 281 running through the midwest, for example.

Opposite for Interstate
The route designations for the new interstate system have been set up on an exactly opposite basis. The main north-south route in the far west will be Interstate 5, running from the Mexican boundary through California, Oregon and Washington. On the other side of the country, Interstate 95 will run from Miami, Fla., to Houlton, Maine.

Interstate 10 will run from Jacksonville, Fla., to Los Angeles. And along the northern boundary of the United States, Interstate 90 will run from Boston to Seattle.

No interstate number will have more than two digits. The association figures you can't safely read any more than that when you're traveling fast.

State Aide to Help Solve Pupils' 'Strike' Over Buses

Corning (AP)—A representative of the State Department of Education is expected here tomorrow to help settle a dispute between the Corning city school districts and a group of parents, who have kept their 23 elementary school children out of school for 11 days to protest bus service.

The parents, all residents of the Quackenbush Hill area about a mile beyond the city limits, want the school bus to stop at the door instead of at bus stops located about a half a mile apart.

Richard Van Elten, chairman of the parent's group, said the parents intended to keep the children out of school "until we get what we want."

School authorities said the state has been invited to help solve the dispute.

Dr. Grant Venn, district superintendent, said that to meet the demands of the parents and extend similar service to all of the 3,500 pupils using school buses in the district would increase about 20 percent present transportation costs of about $250,000 annually.

He said the district would also have to buy 10 new buses, and bus runs would have to start so early that some children would spend up to four hours a day on buses.

The district provides transportation for all children who must walk more than a quarter mile. The limit under state law is two miles.

The newly formed district covers dozens of square miles around Corning. Nine new elementary schools, replacing 43 one-room district schools, were opened this year.

State Continues Daylight Time Until Oct. 27

By The Associated Press
Daylight saving time ends in some sections of the nation at 2 a. m. this Sunday, but many other areas will keep fast time another month.

In a few places the closing date for daylight time came earlier, and most of the south and west had no daylight time this Summer.

In still other areas, daylight time if officially or unofficially a year "round affair—a movement that seems to be spreading, but slowly.

Clocks are to be turned back an hour this Sunday in all of California, Nevada, Wisconsin and Minnesota; most of the northeastern Ohio communities which adopted daylight savings time; about 385 communities in Illinois, not including the Chicago area; two counties on the eastern shore of Maryland; many communities in Indiana; and about half of Pennsylvania communities.

New Jersey, Delaware, the District of Columbia and its suburbs; most of Maryland, half of Pennsylvania, including Philadelphia and Pittsburgh; and a number of scattered areas, including Chicago, St. Louis and Louisville, will remain on daylight time until Oct. 27.

Ship-Survivor Hunt Ended

London (AP)—A great air-sea search for more survivors of the German windjammer Pamir was abandoned today.

Only 6 of the crew of 86 has been found since the four-master went down in Hurricane Carrie off the Azores Saturday.

Convinced that no more of the crew could have survived the fury of the storm, the U. S. Coast Guard announced the search abandoned.

Only a few planes will stay in the area until the last ship leaves, the U. S. Air Force said.

Thirteen other county chairmen were appointed, and the Commerce Department says chairmen will be named for eight more.

The celebration will be held in commemoration of the 350th anniversary of Henry Hudson's exploration of the Hudson River and Samuel De Champlain's discovery of Lake Champlain.
