

Just Plain Bill Man Claims Longest Name in U.S. — 666 Letters

Philadelphia (AP)—"When somebody calls my name, I don't have any trouble finding out who they mean," says the man who claims he has the longest last name in the United States—666 letters, plus 26 given names.

"I like to be unique," says Hubert B. Wolfeschlegelsteinhausenbergerdorff. "I don't like being part of the common herd."

HUBERT, 47, a Philadelphian of German descent, doesn't use his full name when signing documents—just the first 35 letters.

That's how he is listed with the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., which has to process his policy by hand. The company's giant 7074 computer stops dead when it comes to any identification beyond 35 letters.

Hubert's Social Security card has the "shortened" version—the 44 letters, including Hubert B.—even though it takes up two lines.

HUBERT SAID in an interview that he Army used a clipped and Anglicized version of his monicker when he was drafted in 1942. They just wouldn't go for his full name, which he says is:

Adolph Blaine Charles David Earl Frederick Gerald Hubert Irvin John Kenneth Lloyd Martin Nero Oliver Paul Quincy Randolph Sherman Thomas Uncas Victor William Xerxes Yancy Zeus Wolfeschlegelsteinhausenbergerdorffwelchevoralternwarengewissenhafschaferswessenschafewarenwohlgepflegendsorgfaltigkeitbechultzenvorandereingefuehrtehrtraubgerigfeindewelchevoalternzwohlfunderttausend-

THE SENIOR is to distinguish him from junior.

What's in a name?

In an admittedly loose translation, Hubert says: It tells a story of a wolf-killer, a resident of a stonehouse in a village, whose ancestors were conscientious shepherds whose sheep were well fed and carefully guarded against attack by ferocious enemies and whose ancestors 1,200,000 years before the first earth man, in a space ship made with tungsten and seven iridium motors and using light as a source of power, started a long journey across interstellar space, searching for a star around which was an inhabitable planet where they could establish a new race of intelligent mankind and where they would live long, happy lives and be free from attack by other intelligensia from the outer space when whence they came.

Hubert, a linotype operator, has a wife, Constance, and two sons, Hubert, etc., Jr., and Timothy Wayne, etc., etc.

READY TO RETIRE—Technical Sergeant Morris A. Schipps, center, of Saratoga Air Base's 656th Radar Squadron, is congratulated by base commander Major William D. McMonagle, left, and squadron First Sergeant, Glen K. Way. The retiree was feted at a formal dining in ceremony at the base which was attended by Brigadier General Thomas B. Whitehouse, vice-commander of the 26th Air Division.

The 11 honor pupils of grade 8 include: Barbara Ashton, Jeffrey Boyd, Richard Buchheimer, Carol Crocker, Judith Glassman, Mark Jones, Vilma McCall, Ava Messinger, Ellen Polezoes, Gail Reed and Ainslie Wagner.

Air Base Fetes Retiree With Dining-in Event

The 656th Radar Squadron non-commissioned officers held a formal dining-in honoring the retirement of T/Sgt. Morris A. Schipps, who has been stationed at the Saratoga Air Base for the last four years.

The affair was held recently at the Radar station with special guests Brigadier General Thomas D. Whitehouse, vice-commander of the 26th Air Division; Saratoga Springs Mayor Arthur Kearney; Major William D. MacMonagle, base commander; Chaplain W. Benjamin Holmes; Dr. John Esposito base physician, and the officers of the squadron.

Schipps was presented the Air Force Commendation medal by General Whitehouse for meritorious service, dedication and devotion to his job and his service during his 20 years of active duty.

The history of the formal military dining-in dates back to the middle 19th century in India when the commanding officer of a rather remote British detachment decided it would be good to have all of his officers in their formal uniforms at least once a week and have an official dinner. The dining-in tradition in the Air Force dates back to WW II when General 'Hap' Arnold used to hold his famous "Wing Dings." The formal and fun get-together has been revised over the years and each military unit has its own tradition to their dining-in.

At the 656th Radar Squadron the dining-ins are held with the officers and non-commissioned officers. The most junior NCO is the toastmaster for the affair, although his title is Mis-

3 Voting Machines Ordered by Malta Board

Round Lake—The Town of Malta will have three new voting machines in operation in November's presidential election as a result of Tuesday night's action of the town board when that group voted unanimously to replace the two on hand which have been in operation since 1936.

The new machines will be completely fool-proof, automatic 1964 models right off the assembly line, the board said. The additional machine is needed for the third district in the township which was authorized at last month's meeting of the board.

The purchase will be financed through a five-year serial bond issue of $4,478. The cost of each machine is approximately $1,606. A $50 trade-in value was quoted on the two obsolete machines.

A vote on the proposed adoption of a trailer ordinance was postponed on the advice of town attorney Charles Wolf to allow further study of the plan. The adoption of such an ordinance to control the setting up of trailer courts and privately owned trailers throughout the township has been a subject of discussion for several months. A delegation of citizens attended the March meeting to air their opinions and protest the increasing number of trailer courts springing up in the area.

Charles A. Cleveland, supervisor, announced the appointment of Mrs. Evelyn Gorham as the town's representative on the youth recreational commission. The board, at its April meeting, voted to join with the towns of Milton, Ballston and the village of Ballston Spa in a tri-area recreation program already under way. The program will be on a year-round basis and will be open to all youth within the above mentioned districts.

The board will meet at the town clerk's office on July 2 to appoint election inspectors for the three districts in the Town of Malta.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kidwell entertained the Jane McCrea Chapter, DAR, husbands of members and the CAR at a picnic luncheon last Tuesday at their home on the Hudson River.

Lettuce Now A Good Buy

Homegrown iceberg lettuce is now in plentiful supply in upstate areas, according to the Market Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

This popular salad vegetable is the outstanding purchase of the week. Nearby cabbage and peas, along with spinach, beets, salad greens, rhubarb, radishes and green onions, are all on the best buy list.

The season has just started for summer squash and prices are expected to decline in the near future. Southern peppers and Texas yellow onions are a reasonable purchase. However, snap beans, celery, cucumbers and sweet corn are rather expensive at the wholesale level.

Nearby strawberries continue on the good buy list but the peak of the season has been reached. Most other items in the fruit line such as cantaloupes, table grapes, oranges, grapefruit, peaches and plums are high priced.

All sizes of New York State eggs declined in price during the past week and are now an economical purchase.

For red meat, both beef and pork are expected to be reasonable purchases in most upstate areas. Veal and lamb continue to be rather expensive. For poultry, broilers and fryers are the top purchase. Other types of poultry are also in the low price field.
